

Thwarting the Left's Plan to Subvert Elections

Join us in a conversation with author and columnist Dr. Victor Davis Hanson.

Tuesday, April 2, 2019 at 12 p.m. (ET)

Dial 515-739-1247; enter code 475246#

From advocating the elimination of the Electoral College to pushing for a voting age of 16, to weakening election safeguards, America's progressives are trying to ensure that they will never lose another election.

The Democratic House recently passed on a party-line vote the communist-sounding "For the People Act," which should be called the Vote Fraud Enabling Act. It politicizes the Federal Elections Commission, forces taxpayers to subsidize political campaigns and regulates political speech. It imposes automatic voter registration, same-day voter registration, online voter registration, no-fault absentee balloting and early voting, all of which make it easier to commit vote fraud.

It mandates including noncitizens, here in the United States legally and illegally, in counts for redistricting, which determines congressional districts and federal funding.

What should Americans do in the face of this naked attempt to turn our country into a one-party state?

Dr. Hanson is the Martin and Illie Anderson Senior Fellow at the Hoover Institution and a columnist for The Washington Times; his focus is classics and military history.

Dr. Hanson was a National Endowment for the Humanities fellow at the Center for Advanced Studies in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford, California (1992–93), a visiting professor of classics at Stanford University (1991–92), the annual Wayne and Marcia Buske Distinguished Visiting Fellow in History at Hillsdale College (2004–), the Visiting Shifron Professor of Military History at the U.S. Naval Academy (2002–3), and the William Simon Visiting Professor of Public Policy at Pepperdine University (2010).

In 1991 he was awarded an American Philological Association Excellence in Teaching Award. He received the Eric Breindel Award for Excellence in Opinion Journalism (2002), presented the Manhattan's Institute's Wriston Lecture (2004), and was awarded the National Humanities Medal (2007) and the Bradley Prize (2008).

Hanson is the author of hundreds of articles, book reviews, and newspaper editorials on Greek, agrarian, and military history and essays on contemporary culture. He has written or edited twenty-four books, the latest of which is The Case for Trump (Basic Books, 2019). His other books include The Second World Wars (Basic Books, 2017); The Savior Generals: How Five Great Commanders Saved Wars That Were Lost - from Ancient Greece to Iraq (Bloomsbury 2013); The End of Sparta (Bloomsbury, 2011); The Father of Us All: War and History, Ancient and Modern (Bloomsbury, 2010); Makers of Ancient Strategy: From the Persian Wars to the Fall of Rome (ed.) (Princeton, 2010); The Other Greeks (California, 1998); The Soul of Battle (Free Press, 1999); Carnage and Culture (Doubleday, 2001); Ripples of Battle (Doubleday, 2003); A War Like No Other (Random House, 2005); The Western Way of War (Alfred Knopf, 1989; 2nd paperback ed., University of California Press, 2000); The Wars of the Ancient Greeks (Cassell, 1999; paperback ed., 2001); and Mexifornia: A State of Becoming (Encounter, 2003), as well as two books on family farming, Fields without Dreams (Free Press, 1995) and The Land Was Everything (Free Press, 1998). Currently, he is a syndicated columnist for Tribune Media Services and a weekly columnist for the National Review Online.

Hanson received a BA in classics at the University of California, Santa Cruz (1975), was a fellow at the American School of Classical Studies, Athens (1977–78), and received his Ph.D. in classics from Stanford University (1980).